SUMMER

CAMP!

a seriousfun camp

Flying Horse Farms summer camps serve campers ages 8-15 with a serious medical illness, and each camp week is designed to meet the specific medical needs for a particular diagnosis or group of diagnoses. Campers attend camp without their families for approximately one week, will live in cabins, and participate in traditional summer camp activities under medical customized supervision. These activities include archery, boating, fishing, arts and crafts, nature, sports and recreation, overnight outpost camping and all group programs.

And, as always, camps remain at no cost to families.
